JOIN A NETWORK

with whom to partner, collaborate, and share in camaraderie

Whether you're looking to launch or expand your business, implement institutional or community programs, or take your existing program to the next level, we can provide resources to help you flourish and be successful.

BE AN ADVOCATE

in the composting and organics management industry in Wisconsin

As a Chapter of USCC, we participate in state and national legislative efforts on issues like persistent herbicides, compost quality, zoning, and alternative technologies for managing organic materials. As a member, you'll have a voice in shaping policies that affect the organics recycling industry in WI and beyond.

STAY CONNECTED

to current events, legislation, and information

Our community of state, national, and international members is collaborative and dedicated to exchanging knowledge, mentoring, and leveraging everyone's success. Through participation in state and national conferences, committees, online discussion groups and training, and more, you'll have the opportunity to connect with like-minded industry professionals and experts.

Who are we?

We are a group of composters, food scrap haulers, municipalities, businesses, and individuals invested in the success of a robust and impactful compost industry in Wisconsin. That's why we started a chapter of the US Composting Council in our home state.

Mission:

The Wisconsin Composting Council (WCC) is organized exclusively to promote the composting industry, compost manufacturing, and utilization of the organic component of WI's waste stream, through support of infrastructure development, quality control, ethical operations, operator training, legislation and advocacy, and public education.
